

Awards for the best student Communications

Terms and conditions

1. Aim of the awards

The awards for the best student Communications (oral and poster) aim at encouraging research in any entomological field in the new generations.

2. Requirements for participants

In order to qualify for these awards, the communicating candidate does not have to be a member of any entomological society. The candidate must be the first author of the communication and he/she must be the one delivering the communication. The candidate must show a prove of her/his student status at the time of completing her/his registration.

3. Panel

The choice of the best communications will correspond to the panel that the organizing committee of the congress will nominate with the aim of evaluating candidate Communications.

The panel will be constituted at the beginning of the congress, complying with gender parity and will be made up of researchers with recognized experience in the different thematic areas of the event. The members of the panel will be external to the organizing committee of the congress.

The panel's decisions will be adopted by a majority of members of the panel and will be unappealable.

Communications will be valued according to the following criteria: scientific quality; clarity and precision in the presentation; originality of the Communication topic.

Awards may not be nominated by the panel in the case of Communications not having enough scientific quality.

4. Acceptance of the bases

The candidates must fully accept these terms and conditions as well as the panel's decision, waiving any claim in relation to them and the selection process carried out.
